Shurgard obtains a building permit in West London

LUXEMBOURG – Shurgard, the largest developer, owner and operator of self-storage centers in Europe – has received a building permit for a new self-storage facility in Chiswick (West London).

This future c. 6,600 sqm self-storage property is set to open in 2023 and will offer over c. 1,200 self-storage units to the London region.

This project will reinforce Shurgard's leadership position in London and the Thames Valley with close to 200,000 square meters of rentable area.

Earlier this year Shurgard completed the acquisition of CityStore Self Storage's property in Central London. It is currently offering self storage in 41 centers in the London region, nearly doubling its store presence over the past years through organic developments or multiple acquisitions.

Shurgard has another property in its London pipeline, for which it expects to receive a building permit for a new self-storage facility in the coming months.
